

How Can You Get Involved?

Community Action

Community based action by Landcare groups has been very effective at the local level. These groups work on solutions and ways of preventing the problems they have identified in their area.

Land and Water Management Plans take this community approach even further, looking at whole districts and / or catchments.

Landcare needs to involve the whole community.

For Further Information:

Salt Action, NSW Agriculture, the Department of Land and Water Conservation and the Environment Protection Authority can give you advice and information on salinity, water quality and waterlogging issues on an individual or group basis. Contact your:

- District Soil Conservationist
- District Agronomist/Horticulturist
- Irrigation Officer
- Salinity Officer
- Land and Water Management Plan or Catchment Plan representative
- Landcare Group or Landcare Coordinator